Foster has evinced neither ability as an administrator, consistency as a partisan, wisdom as a party leader, honesty as a politician, honor towards other great men of the party, nor fidelity to the people who elected him.—Buryrus Journal, Rep.

Ex-Gov. BAGLEY, of Michigan, died at San Francisco on Wednesday last week. He was a "Stalwart" among the Stalwarts.

MR. HARTMAN, the Nihilist, has arrived in New York. He was concerned in several attempts upon the life of the Czar.

How about Charley Foster's envelope handed to Lewis Faith, of Crawford county, with $50 inclosed, "to treat the boys liberally."

THE Republicans are running two candidates for the Legislature in Williams county. It is likely the Democratic candidate will be elected, which will be a gain of one.

FOUR, in the Signal, says the Republican ticket is one of the best that could have been nominated in the county, but on the streets he says "it is better than none at all!"

PRESIDENT GARFIELD since his relapse last week has been slowly mending, and the physicians are now almost certain of his recovery. The exact location of the ball is now known, but its removal has not yet been attempted.

"Not a politician," only a plain citizen and business man—this is one of the peculiar objections the Republican blowers make to Mr. Bookwalter. Well, neither in this nor in any other respect does he resemble His Excellency, C. Foster. And Democrats are glad and thankful over the contrast.

HON. D. G. RAY, member of the present Legislature, died at his residence at Mt. Auburn, near Cincinnati, of Bright's disease of the kidneys, on the 29th ult. He was 54 years of age.

C. FOSTER and the Republican press are now busy bull-dozing the Methodist preachers. They have went so far as to threaten to withdraw support if they persist in voting against the pompous C. Foster.

THE letter of acceptance of John W. Bookwalter may be found in this issue. The letter is received with favorable impressions all over the State, and is admitted even by a large number of Republicans to be a strong and sensible document.

ACCORDING to the Signal Tyler was given the nomination for representative second handed. Norton was offered the nomination, but declined. Then Tyler was hunted up, and accepted. It was a "bar!" the Republicans were after.

DEMOCRATS, the Republicans say you can be bought, and in this way they expect to send a Republican to the Legislature from Henry county. Cast back the infamous insult in their teeth by voting for your nominee, Democrats.

WHEN the vacancies for Congressmen are filled, the score will stand, Republicans, 145; Democrats, 134; Independents, 14. The Independents hold the balance of the power and can dictate the organization of the House, which they will probably do.

J. R. FALLIS, the well-known miller at Maumee, speaking of Mr. Bookwalter yesterday said to a Bee reporter: "I have known him a long time; he is an original genius, a man of strong common sense, and as square as a die. If all his opponents knew him as I do, he would be elected by an immense majority."

THE Signal has become the medium through which innocent women are slandered. The business is mean and contemptible, and Fouke, for the part he is taking in the matter, should hide his grey hairs for shame. There is no excuse for men to strike an inoffensive woman through the columns of a newspaper, and it but shows the depravity of the perpetrators.

THERE is some demand on the part of able Republican journals for a speech from Bookwalter. That little speech Mr. Bookwalter made to his men last fall when telling them the work in his shops would go on no matter who was elected, and that other speech made at the time of the panic, informing his men that their wages would be increased, are specimens of Mr. Bookwalter's style, and it suits the workmen exactly.

LET it be remembered that the late Republican Legislature was the most worthless, the most inefficient, passed fewer good laws and more bad ones, wasted more time in frivolity and junketing, spent more money and got less for it than any Legislature that ever sat in Columbus. Let there be no more like it. Let the people see to it that the next Legislature is not a disgrace and a burning shame, as the last one was. Let Democrats look well to the Legislature.

THE Republicans are making a great ado over Bookwalter at one time voting for their candidate and being a Republican. We see no reason for so much fuss, if it is done to keep Republicans from voting for him. For if he was a Republican the fact would be an incentive which should make Republicans vote for him the more readily, which a great number are going to do. Democrats are perfectly satisfied, and from the argument of these howlers we see no reason why the Republicans should not be, and why all of them cannot vote for Bookwalter.

TOledo is honored to-day by an assemblage of representative Democrats from all sections of Ohio, many of whom have won enviable National reputation in the service of the country, while nearly all of them are well known throughout the State as gentlemen of character and ability; and their assemblage here to-day to consult as to the policy and management of the coming campaign, is indicative of the universal interest felt in the approaching contest, and the harmony which prevails among all sections of the Democratic party in Ohio. That the struggle is to be an earnest and warmly contested battle, this meeting of leading Democrats attests; and if they fail to win the victory it will not be for want of harmonious action and vigilant work.—Bee, 28th ult.

No Democrat should lend his aid towards throwing the next Legislature into the hands of the Republicans, for that party wishes to get control of the Legislature so that it may repeat the outrageous gerrymander of a year or two ago, by which Democrats were cheated out of four or five Congressmen. The State is to be redistricted for Congressional purposes next winter and if Democrats want justice done they must get control of the Legislature, so that they may blot out this damnable outrage upon the sovereign people of the State. We have confidence in the Democracy of Henry County, and we don't believe they will forsake their organization when so much is at stake.

The editor of the Delaware Herald (Dem.) says he won't support Bookwalter.

The Frank Citizen, an influential Democratic paper of Cincinnati, will not support Bookwalter. The above appeared as squibs in last week's Signal, which are Republican campaign lies, with not the semblance of truth in them, as both of the papers named are supporting Mr. Bookwalter with a hearty good will, as is every other Democratic paper in the State. This is more than the editor of the Signal can say of the Republican press of the State, as several papers ignore Foster entirely and others only give him a lukewarm support.

THE Republican press of the State have opened the campaign with a maliciousness unparalleled, and the gross misrepresentations that fill their columns are so palpable that it is scarcely necessary to refute them in order that intelligent voters may see their utter falsity. Since the campaign opened the Henry County Signal, which is but a counterpart of nearly every Radical sheet in the State, has been a tissue of falsehoods concerning Democrats and their candidates. One of these falsehoods was to the effect that the Delaware Herald refuses to support Mr. Bookwalter, but how beautifully it is exploded by the following editorial which is clipped from the Herald:

The ticket is one of the most worthy and reputable ever made in this State, and will command the undivided and most earnest support of every Democrat in the county. Those who, like ourselves, did not secure their choice, must recognize the eminent fitness of the head of the ticket, and yield that fealty which the decision of the party should always command. We shall enter this contest with the same zeal that we would had Gen. Banning, whose nomination we desired, been selected. The standard-bearer, John Bookwalter, is a prominent representative of the intelligence, worth and success, which crowns individual effort, when prompted by virtue and industry. Every step of the way from poverty and obscurity, to wealth and eminence, has been marked by those sterling qualities which commend themselves to the common sense and good and honest admiration of all who second those who struggle successfully against the adverse circumstances of life. He represents the Democracy not only in principles, but in the very marrow of its promises and hopes, and therefore we ask for him the enthusiastic support, not only of the Democracy, but of the people of this county.

Death at Desher.

DESHLER, Aug. 1.—This afternoon, Chas. Boston, son of J. W. Boston, furniture dealer of this village was instantly crushed to death by logs rolling upon him. He was engaged by Messrs. Breyer, Boston & Co. in hauling logs to their mill. Having loaded up he started from the woods without blocking the logs on the wagon. He was seated upon the right side when the wagon lurched that way and he was thrown to the ground, the logs going over him causing instant death. He was a young man of much promise and universally respected in this city.

Against Bookwalter.

(Springfield Transcript)

MR. Bookwalter sometimes has the dyspepsia. Therefore he ought not to be elected Governor. Mr. Bookwalter has an art gallery. Therefore he ought not to be elected Governor. Mr. Bookwalter has thought something of establishing a branch manufacturing establishment in Alabama. Therefore, he ought not to be elected Governor. Mr. Bookwalter has uniformly and successfully attended to his own business and let other people's alone. Therefore, he ought not to be elected Governor. For further particulars see Republican press, especially the Republic.
